

TEACHING PORTFOLIO

By:

Professor Dr. Abdullah Bin Ibrahim

What is Teaching Portfolio?

- A set of material that represent your teaching practice as related to student learning. Or
- A collection of documents that together provide a record of:
 - The ideas and objectives that inform your teaching.
 - The courses you teach or are prepared to teach.
 - The methods you use
 - Your effectiveness as a teacher.
 - How you assess and improve your teaching

What is Teaching Portfolio?

- Teaching portfolio vary considerably depending on their specific purpose, audience, institutional context, and individual needs.

Major Components of a Teaching Portfolio

1. A teaching philosophy statement not to exceed one (1) page - reflections will be part of teaching philosophy statement
2. Examples and evidence:
 - Sample syllabi
 - Courses taught
 - Courses planned

Major Components of a Teaching Portfolio

- Sample assignments and assessments
 - Essay assignments
 - Exams
 - Comments on student papers

Major Components of a Teaching Portfolio

- Evidence of teaching effectiveness
 - Student evaluations
 - Evaluation by faculty members or other observer
 - Teaching awards
 - Videotape of a class
- Evidence of professional development
 - Teaching workshops, seminars, publications etc.

Why Prepare a Teaching Portfolio?

1. As a developmental process for reflecting and improving teaching
2. As an evaluative product for personnel decisions such as tenure, promotion, or a teaching award

Benefits

- They provide different sources of evidence of teaching performance
- They make teaching more visible through their demonstration of a variety of teaching-related activities
- For reflecting and evaluating teaching in the hands of faculty
- Give an opportunity to think about our own teaching

Benefits

- They offer opportunity for faculty to work collaboratively

Shaping the Portfolio

- Title page and table of contents
- Headings and sub-headings that clearly identify and separate the portfolio's components
- In the body of the portfolio, references to material in the appendix, where appropriate
- Brief explanatory statements accompanying each item in the appendix, where appropriate

THANK YOU